

Established in 2020, Chuzhou Baiyi Protective Products Co., Ltd. operates on a factory site spanning 75 mu (approximately 11.6 acres) and employs over 200 staff members. It is a specialized manufacturer of outdoor protective covers and canopies, integrating R&D, design, production, installation, and after-sales services into a comprehensive solution.

The company focuses on addressing protection needs across various outdoor equipment, storage, and engineering applications, specializing in industrial equipment protective covers, rain and sun shelters, custom cover solutions, and related protective products. It possesses independent expertise in developing multifunctional weather-resistant fabrics and implementing precision manufacturing processes, offering both standardized stock products and comprehensive ODM/OEM customization services. The facility is equipped with a complete suite of automated production and testing systems, supported by a standardized quality control framework that ensures core outdoor performance characteristics including sunlight resistance, water resistance, tear resistance, and tolerance to extreme temperatures.

The company has established a one-stop service model, offering comprehensive tailored solutions spanning demand consultation, on-site surveys, design development, mass production, on-site installation, and lifetime maintenance. It has solidly established its presence across multiple domestic industries while expanding internationally. Guided by the principles of meticulous craftsmanship and customer-centricity, the company continuously innovates its products and services, dedicated to delivering integrated, cost-effective outdoor protection system solutions for clients across various sectors.
